Dear Parents/Guardians,

The second wave of GCSE mock exams have begun and the students appeared focused and ready this morning. We have not emailed for a while, given that each group had their own revision plans led by their class teacher.

Soon to follow this email will be a set of revision tasks for over the Easter break. Please encourage your child to complete these as part of their revision. They will not be pointless tasks, but will enable your child to revise in the correct way.

Please remind your son/daughter to attend the revision sessions on Thursdays – this is the designated ‘English’ day and so, there will always be something going on. In addition, if you think that there are any fellow parents who are not aware of the online letters and revision programme, please let them know.

The next exam is English Literature. The students will be assessed on Macbeth and their novel. You can find further details of timings on My Child at School.

Thank you again for all of your support and we wish the students well over the coming months.

Ms S Meredith (Assistant Head of English)
